Kankakee Shows Good Results in Industrial Drive

WITH A FEW JOBS being lost here, a few being lost there and a lot of people wanting to do something about it and not knowing where to start, it might be well to look and see what Kankakee has been doing.

We can learn at least a thing or two in an article written by Ed Hasse, former United Press newsman now with Southern Illinois University, that appeared in Southern Illinois Business Bulletin, published at SIU.

Hasse starts right out by saying that in the past 17 years 17 industries have established new plants. That puts the start back to just 1940.

And, he notes, there are no shoe-string or hole-in-the-wall operations, but Kankakee has gone out and got firms like General Foods, General Mills, Armour, Armstrong Cork, Borden and Simoniz.

And what we are all asking is: What did Kankakee do? We want to do the same.

"It wasn't just luck that made these things happen, even though Kankakee has some excellent industrial advantages," the article says, pointing out that few of Kankakee's industries are able to find their raw materials in the immediate area, that some southern Illinois towns one-fourth as large (Kankakee has grown from 30,000 to 45,000 during the 17 years) have a greater supply of currently available labor as an inducement to industry.

Teach Children to Join in Great Decisions, Stevenson Urges Parents

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson urged educators and just plain citizens today to "teach our children how to join in the making of great decisions" demanded in this "dramatic century." In a speech prepared for delivery at a public meeting of the North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools, Stevenson identified those decisions as the ones on which "life and the quality of living depend . . . decisions on questions so vast that they are only partly understood by those who have to decide them . . . so crucial no one man or group of men can be safely entrusted with them . . . decisions that must be made by a collective wisdom that has to be infinitely greater than any of its individual parts, a wisdom that rises above its source."

Stevenson urged that educators bring more than factual knowledge meetings of civic importance were held in the log church before Saline county was organized and a court house and county seat were established.

The 33 churches and 4 missions in the association comprise a membership of 9,000. Additions this year are above last year and total 666 with a few churches still to report. Of the 33 churches all have services full time except two. Three churches do not have pastors at present.

Under the leadership of Moderator Fuson and the large Mission board, Saline Association has made many improvements. At the annual meeting the largest budget in the history of the association will be recommended by the Budget committee for the messengers to consider. The Budget will call for almost 8,000.00, calling for a little less than one dollar per church member. The association's expenditures will be nearing the half million dollar mark when all items are counted. In March of 1957 Rev. Howard Todd Taylor, the moderator, resigned to take the pastorate of Calvary Baptist church in Alton. The associate moderator then became moderator. Just preceding Taylor's resignation, Rev. Floyd Lacy, missionary for the past four years, left the association to become the pastor of the Tammis Baptist church in Clear Creek Association near Anna.

Rev. Ernest Ammon was elected by the Miss on Board as superintendent of missions and he accepted and assumed the office February 17, 1957. Rev. Ammon had been pastor of the First Baptist church of Carrier Mills for the past eight years and 10 months, the longest pastorate in the history of the Carrier Mills Baptist church. The moderator reports that in these seven months that Rev. Ammon has been on the field he has visited all 33 churches and four missions, held five revivals and assisted in a sixth revival. All departments have shown some gains and increases. At present

Khrushchev Tells Mrs. FDR War Is Unthinkable

MOSCOW (AP) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev called war "unthinkable" during their three-hour-long talk at Yalta Friday.

"We must not have it," she quoted Khrushchev.

Mrs. Roosevelt met with correspondents in Moscow on her return from Khrushchev's vacation retreat at Yalta, historic site of the World War II Big Three conference.

The interview with Khrushchev capped Mrs. Roosevelt's four-week-long visit to the Soviet Union. She is scheduled to leave today for Copenhagen on her way back to New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt said Khrushchev was "cordial, simple and outspoken" during the interview in his Crimean retreat which she said he had turned into a kind of "summer White House."

Khrushchev, she said, was "very nice" in general but did get "a bit angry" when he emphasized points he "believes strongly."

She said Khrushchev spoke "warmly" about her late husband. "He felt Franklin understood what the Russians were trying to do," she said. "All the Russians I have met have said the same."

Mrs. Roosevelt said much of the interview was devoted to discussing Khrushchev's family. She said she had tea and cookies with Khrushchev, his wife, daughter, son-in-law, grandson and granddaughter before she left the Khrushchev villa.

U. S. Expected To Cold Shoulder Soviet Feeler

Deputy Foreign Minister Proposes Top-Level Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Western observers said today the United States undoubtedly will cold shoulder a Soviet feeler for a top-level Big Four conference on disarmament.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassili V. Kuznetsov put out the feeler during a news conference here Friday.

"The Soviet government favors any constructive disarmament measures and takes a view that they should be examined at the highest levels," he said.

Western sources saw Kuznetsov's remarks as a bid for a new meeting at the summit of the United States, Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia. The Western powers have been cold to previous feelers from Moscow and sources said the United States is not likely to change its position at this time.

Kuznetsov also said he believed a visit to Washington by Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov might prove useful. But he added he knew of no likelihood that any such visit might occur.

Disarmament, which may prove to be the major topic of discussion at the 12th General Assembly, formally takes the stage Monday with the meeting of the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

The commission will report to the General Assembly on the London talks conducted by the United States, Britain, Canada, France and Russia, meeting as the U. N.'s disarmament subcommittee.

When the General Assembly's first (main political) committee meets later in the week to decide on the order in which it will discuss pending issues, it is expected to give disarmament top priority.

SIU Enrollment Nears 8,100

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Enrollment at fast-growing Southern Illinois University is nearing the 8,100 mark, forecasters had predicted for 1958. Budget requests presented to the legislature last spring were based upon an estimated total of 7,250 for this fall.

Incomplete registration figures showed resident students on the main campus and at residence centers in East St. Louis and Alton for the fall term numbered 8,029 by mid-week. Late registration is expected to boost the total to more than 8,200, a jump of nearly 2,000 students over September of last year.

SIU enrollment at Carbondale, 6318, already exceeds the figures of a year ago (6255) even though tuition fees have been hiked, and entrance requirements tightened and probationary rules revised. A new ruling which prohibits freshmen from bringing automobiles to the campus may have been another factor in keeping local enrollment from going even higher, SIU officials said.

In addition, the 1,800 students at the new centers in East St. Louis and Alton include some who were on the main campus last year and are now attending classes closer to home. During the planning stages of the Residence Centers, it was estimated they would draw only 450 students the first year.

Union to Appeal

Federal Judge Signs Order Blocking Election of Officers by Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts today signed an order blocking election of officers at the Teamsters' Union convention in Miami Beach, Fla., next week.

The order, a preliminary injunction, also forbids Teamsters elections anywhere else until the conclusion of litigation over credentials of convention delegates.

It forbids the union to recognize credentials of any convention delegate who may not have been elected according to the Teamsters' constitution.

The judge acted in a suit brought by 13 rank-and-file Teamsters from New York state who charged that the convention is stacked in favor of Vice President James R. Hoffa's candidacy for the top job.

Martin F. O'Donoghue, attorney for the Teamsters' Union, immediately filed notice that he would appealed the ruling to the U. S. Court of Appeals.

"There is a possibility that we may be heard sometime during the day," O'Donoghue told the court. Letts ordered attorneys for the rank-and-file group to stand by in case there is a hearing by a three-judge appellate court.

The suit charged that Hoffa, odds-on favorite to succeed retiring President Dave Beck, joined with others on the executive board to rig the election.

The rank - and - file plaintiffs charged that more than 80 per cent of the convention delegates were hand-picked by board members to perpetuate themselves in office.

The 82-year-old judge signed the order after studying the papers for nearly 20 minutes in a stifled court room where reporters outnumbered the spectators.

May Seek Injunction

Women's March at Little Rock To Ask Governor to Close School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A leading woman segregationist said "hundreds" of women advised her they would march with her to Gov. Orval E. Faubus' mansion today to ask him to close integrated Central High School.

Mrs. Margaret Jackson, vice president of the Central High Mothers' League, said her organization wants to close Central until "things cool off."

She said she won't let her 15 and 16-year-old daughters go until paratroopers guarding the school are pulled out by the federal government.

The women's march was made known shortly after Faubus, in a talk with a reporter at the Arkansas resort of Hot Springs, said there was a possibility he would seek a court injunction to remove the troops ringing Central High.

Faubus told Mrs. Edna Howe of the Hot Springs Sentinel - Record he had "talked casually" with attorneys about injunction proceedings.

Lawmakers Seeking Session. Lawmakers have urged Faubus to summon the special session to take away state funds from integrated schools.

Almost 7,000 spectators crowded into Central High's stadium, 200 yards from the school Friday night, to watch the Central High team, undefeated in 24 games, play Istrouma High of Baton Rouge, La.

Central won 15-6. Col. William Kuhn, the mustachioed commander of the airborne troops, attended as a spectator with 300 of his unarmed men.

When Central scored its first touchdown, they rose to a man and cheered like West Point cadets. There was no violence and the nine Negro students at Central did not attend.

$100,000

Fire at Carmi

CARMI, Ill.—Fire of undetermined origin swept through three downtown buildings here Friday night and caused damage that may exceed $100,000.

Completely burned out was the Hometown Paint and Wallpaper Store on Main street. The adjoining Carmi News Agency and Tresslar's 5 & 10 Cent Store were badly damaged.

The fire broke out around 6:30 p. m. and rapidly gained headway on paint and paint products in the Hometown Store. The Carmi Volunteer Fire Department was assisted by fire fighting equipment from nearby communities, including Enfield, Fairfield, Crossville, Grayville and Norris City.

Heavy-duty pumps from the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company were credited with giving a major assist in bringing the blaze under control by 8:30 p. m. Hours later, firemen still were pouring water on the smoking embers.

President Sends Angry Reply To Sen. Russell

Senator Protests 'Strong-Armed' Police State Methods

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower today accused the state administration in Arkansas of having encouraged mob violence in the Little Rock school case.

The President spoke out on the school integration problem in Little Rock through a telegram to Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.). Russell wired the President Friday protesting what he called "strong-armed, totalitarian police-state methods being employed at Little Rock."

Russell compared the presence and activity of the 101st Airborne Division paratroopers guarding Central High School in Little Rock with "Hitler's storm troopers."

The President obviously was angered by the Russell telegram. In his reply, he implied strongly that the strife around Central High School would never have happened if the Arkansas National Guard under orders of Gov. Orval E. Faubus had been properly instructed.

"Few times in my life have I felt as saddened as when the obligation of my office required me to order the use of a force within a state to carry out the decisions of a federal court," Eisenhower wired Russell.

"My conviction is that had the police powers of the state of Arkansas been utilized not to frustrate the orders of the court but to support them, the ensuing violence and open disrespect for the law and for the federal judiciary would never have occurred."

"The Arkansas National Guard could have handled the situation with ease had it been instructed to do so."

In a rare burst of direct displeasure at a senator, Eisenhower also told Russell "I must say that I completely fail to comprehend your comparison of our troops to Hitler's storm troopers."

"In one case," the President said, "military power was used to further the ambitions and purposes of a ruthless dictator; in the other, to preserve the institutions of free government."

The President was referring to the order by Federal District Judge Ronald N. Davies to integrate Little Rock's Central High School.

Russell, who publicly had stayed out of the Little Rock squabble until Friday, telegraphed the President a message saying that "as a citizen, as a senator of the United States and as chairman of the Senate Committee On Armed Services, I must vigorously protest the high-handed and illegal methods being employed by the armed forces of the United States under your command who are carrying out your orders to mix the races in the public schools of Little Rock, Arkansas."

Russell said the troops of the 101st Airborne Division were "disregarding and overriding the elementary rights of American citizens by applying tactics which must have been copied from the manual issued the officers of Hitler's storm troopers."

The President replied that Russell's allegations of wrongdoing in Little Rock by the Army paratroopers were being investigated and Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker would make a direct report to the Georgia senator.

Eisenhower can be expected to follow the theme of his telegram to Russell when he meets in Washington Tuesday afternoon with a committee of five southern governors. The White House has ruled out the inclusion of Faubus in this conference.

Whether the Tuesday conference means the end of the President's New England vacation remained to be announced officially, but there were indications that he would fly back to Washington Monday and thus close his vacation White House here on Coasters Harbor Island Naval Base.

Farmers Advised to File Applications for Wheat Exemption

Farmers desiring to file applications to grow up to thirty acres of wheat under the feed wheat exemption provision should contact the Saline County ASC office in the city hall, Harrisburg, Herman Driskell, chairman of the County ASC committee, announced today. To be eligible under the exemption an application must be signed prior to the time wheat is seeded on the farm or October 15, 1957, which ever is the later. Mr. Driskell further stated that this thirty-acre feed wheat provision is not automatic and that an application must be filed.

The feed wheat provision, effective for 1958 and subsequent wheat crops, permits the farmers filing applications to grow up to thirty acres of wheat for use as seed, livestock and poultry feed, and human consumption on the farm where produced. The wheat produced cannot be sold, bartered, or exchanged nor can it be transferred to other farms of the producer. Wheat grown under this exemption must be accounted for by the producer and a record of disposition furnished the ASC office. In the event an agreement is violated, the producer will be subject to regular wheat marketing quota regulations and penalties.

The feed wheat provision varies somewhat for state and county institutions and religious and charitable organizations; therefore, representatives of these groups should call at the office for information, if interested. In view of the various requirements and limitations of the feed wheat provision and the wheat marketing quota regulations, Mr. Driskell suggested that farmers with any questions on the wheat program call at the county office for information as a misunderstanding might result in quota penalty situations.

To Instruct Course In Farm Record Keeping at HTHS

H. C. Bishop, vocational agriculture instructor at the Eldorado Township high school, has received an appointment from H. R. Damisch, chief director for vocational agriculture, to instruct a course in record keeping at the Harrisburg Township high school, starting Wednesday, Oct. 2, 7 p. m.

Mr. Bishop will give instructions to other teachers of vocational agriculture located in Massac, Johnson, Hardin, Pope, Williamson, White, Gallatin, Hamilton and Saline counties.

The ETHS vocational agriculture department has been given special recognition on numerous occasions for its outstanding achievements in the field of record keeping and on these qualifications was selected two years ago as the pilot center for the new experimental record book for students of vocational agriculture.

Following two years of trial, the book has been approved by the IAVT of Illinois for all departments of vocational agriculture.

Notes From Farm Adviser

L. B. Kimmel

DIXON SPRINGS TOUR—41 Saline county farmers toured the Dixon Springs Experiment Station September 18. This was one of the largest groups visiting there this summer according to Bob Cate who conducted the tour.

Things inspected on the tour were a field of Serecia lespedeza used for soil building on low fertility land east of the station. This aroused much interest because several on the tour have had no experience in growing this legume and were amazed to see the rank growth of a variety of lespedeza. Serecia lespedeza grows four to six feet in height and yields about 400 pounds seed. It is deep rooted and lives several years without re-seeding.

Next we saw corn growing, planted on different methods of seed bed preparation. In other words some of the corn was planted on land was only plowed, planted rough in wheel track, some planted without plowing and other plots planted in good seed bed. At present stage little difference can be noted in yield of corn.

We saw several varieties of grain sorghum and silo filling. A new trench silo was being built. We saw corn being irrigated by pumping water from a creek to the upper side of the slope in the corn field.

Pasture mixtures and cattle grazing methods were observed. Part of the crowd stayed over to see the sheep experiments.

Bob Cate remarked that this group asked him more questions than any group he had ever conducted on a tour. They saw the thing they were most interested in, as they have similar problems at home.

Harold Guither and I visited the newspaper editors in Harrisburg and Eldorado last week to see how we could help them use information supplied by the University and Extension Service to better advantage.

Mr. Trigg of the Eldorado Daily Journal suggested pictures and articles combined in mat form to be included in news package for better attention for readers.

Mr. Debes of the Harrisburg Daily Register emphasized the need for good articles which apply to local interest.

An attempt will be made to give the papers more information for farmers of the county suited to their problems.

Raymond Oxford and Earl Hathaway were in my office this morning checking on fly free date for wheat seeding, varieties and use of superphosphate on wheat was

Don't Become Careless with Insecticides

Get careless when spraying your livestock with insecticides and you're just asking for trouble.

Dr. Richard E. Bradley of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine points out that improper use of insecticides can be dangerous to both the farmer and his animals. There is little danger, however, when insecticides are used at recommended rates for their intended purposes.

Dr. Bradley says that lindane, one of the most commonly used sprays for livestock, rates about halfway between "dangerous" and "safe" on the toxicity scale of the common insect sprays and powders.

If you should get lindane on your skin, wash the area immediately with soap and water. If lindane is accidentally swallowed, induce vomiting to empty the stomach, take two tablespoons of Epsom salts and call your physician.

Dr. Bradley offers these suggestions for handling insecticides: read all labels on packages and follow them exactly; wear protective clothing and change to clean clothing after a spraying job; store all insecticides in original packages, away from food and feed-stuffs and out of reach of children and animals; dispose of containers by burning or burying them; call a physician immediately if someone is known or suspected to be poisoned; administer proper antidote.

In addition, Dr. Bradley warns against breathing dust, mist or vapors from insecticides, spilling liquid spray on your skin or eating or smoking until after you have washed your hands and face following a spraying job.

Congressman's Secretary Held In Check Forgery

WASHINGTON (UP)—The "trusted" secretary of Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.), tripped up in a "nearly perfect crime" to defraud the government, was free today on $1,000 bond.

The secretary, Miss Marie Warne, was charged specifically with forging a $178.54 government check in 1955. But an aide to Miller said he understood thousands of dollars might be involved.

Miller said the matter was "a shock" to him because Miss Warne "has been my trusted employee for nearly 13 years," longer than any of his other office aides.

The congressman's aide, Ken Karabatos, gave this account:
Whenever temporary employees left Miller's employ, Miller would write a letter to the House Disbursing Office asking that the employee be taken off the payroll. Miss Warne was supposed to deliver the letters to the disbursing office.

Miller wrote such a letter in the spring of 1955 when Olga Sianias left his employ to accept a job with a federal judge. Miss Sianias returned to the congressional payroll on the staff of Rep. D. S. Saund (D-Calif.).

She recently protested she had not received the May 31, 1955, check for employment with Miller. Karabatos said an investigation revealed Miss Warne had failed to obey Miller's orders to take Miss Sianias off the congressional payroll and had, instead, picked up the check herself.

Flannell Appears On Program of National Ass'n

C. Fred Flannell

C. Fred Flannell, director of the Electronic Computer department, Royal McBee Corp., Port Chester, N. Y., appeared on the program of the National Office Management Association's conference at Hotel Statler, Hartford, Conn., Sept. 17-18, along with other top executives of the country.

Mr. Flannell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Flannell of Carrier Mills.

A graduate of Southern Illinois University, Mr. Flannell was employed by Douglas Aircraft Company, Santa Monica, Calif., in the company's computing department. In 1955, he accepted a position with Librascope, Inc., at Glendale, Calif., as the firm's first applications engineer when they were preparing to announce the LGP-30 computer.

In addition to working on a sub-routine library, he also assisted in the preparation of sales literature and sales work when the Royal McBee Corporation and General Precision Equipment Corporation formed the Royal Precision Corporation. He transferred to Royal McBee in 1956 as director, Scientific Computer department.

About Town And Country

ness man, tells of how one large company located there.

The firm carefully surveyed a number of communities in eight states, gradually narrowing down its focus until three cities were left in the running. The next step was to place "scouts" on street corners where they stood for three days looking into the faces of passers-by. Try this technique in any town for three days and you'll be pretty safe in guessing whether or not local residents have the kind of drives and mental attitudes an industrialist wants in his working force.

After this experiment, the firm shopping for a new location put its agents in automobiles and had them inspect the alleys of the three towns under consideration. The pride that Kankakee residents took in keeping their backyards attractive proved to be the final assurance the company needed on its decision to move there.

To follow this anecdote with the conclusion that Kankakee's industrial progress has depended on its people may sound like an over-simplification. Admittedly, too, it is impossible to establish a cause-and-effect relationship between intangible human qualities and some industries which came to Kankakee unsolicited and set up shop almost unnoticed.

Still, the human factor has been vitally important. Forthright, aggressive leaders were needed to promote Kankakee. People who lived off the farm and the farmers' earnings for many years had to be re-educated to the thinking of modern industry. They had to learn the importance of planning ahead so their community could keep pace with industrial expansion. They had to learn that industry is no panacea, that factory location is a give-and-take proposition for an town.

This form of education, Kankakee found, doesn't just come naturally. On the other hand, Kankakee wasn't getting anywhere in this learning process began to take root.

"For a long time we just sat back and waited," explained Jim Stupka, who was active in Kankakee's development efforts for many years before Governor Stratton named him to the Industrial Planning Commission. A few community leaders were doing their part, but they were operating with out much local support.

"You've got to sell a town as a unit," Stupka said. "If the people as a whole aren't worried about getting new industry, any efforts in this direction are doomed to failure."

He pointed out that Kankakee residents had to be forcefully convinced of the need for more recreation, sewers, airports, and other costly facilities industry wanted.

"If you want factories bad enough, you have to spend this kind of money in the knowledge that it will come back to build your city," Stupka said. "A manufacturing plant isn't going to take an interest in a town if the people who live there don't seem to care about it."

Mr. Flannell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Flannell of Carrier Mills.

A graduate of Southern Illinois University, Mr. Flannell was employed by Douglas Aircraft Company, Santa Monica, Calif., in the company's computing department. In 1955, he accepted a position with Librascope, Inc., at Glendale, Calif., as the firm's first applications engineer when they were preparing to announce the LGP-30 computer.

Sunday School Lesson

By Dr. Archie E. Brown
Pastor First Baptist Church
Vandalia, Ill.

'Nehemiah--Patriot in Action'

Nehemiah 2:17-18; 4:6; 13:19-21
GOLDEN TEXT: "Be strong — saith the Lord, and work; for I am with you."

INTRODUCTION — All church families who contemplate erecting a new temple, or, church building of any kind, would do well to study the book of Nehemiah. Under his capable leadership Israel undertook and accomplished a great building program.

Nehemiah may have been born into slavery and captivity. However, he rose in rank until he became cup-bearer to King Arta-xerxes. This was quite a responsible position, and he did his work so well that he found favor with the king.

Nehemiah was a loyal subject.
He learned, also, to become very patriotic. He heard many wonderful stories about the beloved city of Jerusalem. He was much disturbed because the walls of the city had not been rebuilt in all the years since their destruction. To the Jewish people this city has ever been very dear to their hearts. Any person, Jew or Gentile, cannot look today upon the walls of Jerusalem without greatly appreciating their feeling.

I NEHEMIAH WAS DISTURBED
(2:17)

The news that came to Nehemiah concerning the terrible condition of the beloved city disturbed him. He could not hide his feelings. When the king looked at him, he knew that something was bothering his faithful servant. He asked what was the trouble.

Nehemiah breathed a quick prayer to God for help, and began pouring out his heart to the king.
He asked for permission to go to Jerusalem and rebuild the walls.
Permission was granted.

Many people today would have reacted differently. They would have said, "what is that to me, what could I do about such a large task?" We need more people today like Nehemiah, who are willing to attempt the impossible for God.

II NEHEMIAH USED GOOD JUDGMENT
(2:18; 4:6)

Read this whole story here, and you will find that Nehemiah used excellent judgment in selecting his working crew and in planning his work. This is very important!
We need to plan well in all things
we attempt to do for our Lord, whether it be in the material, or,
spiritual realm.

III NEHEMIAH WAS SPIRITUAL
(13:19-21)

He really did love his country but first of all Nehemiah loved his God. Friend, real love for country is rooted in true love for God.
Nehemiah established many social reforms. He dealt justly with all people. He made life pretty hard for those who had cheated his people. He forced them to return all that they had stolen.
With the help of Ezra, he brought about a spiritual revival in Israel. It was truly a great time for the people.

CONCLUSION — Nehemiah was a good man. He was a true follower of God and a most patriotic man. People today who are patriotic are people who know, love and serve God.

Nehemiah would not let the people work on the sabbath. We need to be careful as to how we use the Lord's Day today. It is supposed to be used as a day of worship and rest.

THE WORK BENCHES OF GOD

Christians are not turned out on assembly lines.

The skill and patience of many a human soul, the blueprint of Christ's own example, and the unseen but mighty craftsmanship of the Creator Himself—these over the decades bring forth a noble Christian life.

There must be understanding, guidance, faith. There must be a Christian home with sincere, loving parents. There must be prayer, the Bible, worship, thought, study. And at length practice and persistence must win many a victory over self before the world begins to recognize the hand of God in the life of a man.

Nearby in the church you will choose,
there are busy hands at the work benches of God.

And room for more—your child's and your own!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values.
Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For the sake of his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation,
(4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and matterial support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Griffith May Shift Senators To Minneapolis

NEW YORK (AP) — Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, plans to visit Minneapolis during the World Series next week to inspect a new five-million-dollar stadium and talk over the possibility of shifting his American League franchise there.

Griffith confirmed a United Press story that a three-man committee has been negotiating for weeks to transfer the Senators to Minneapolis but added, "They haven't made any proposition that would come close to enticing us away from Washington."

Griffith declined to identify two other cities which are attempting to acquire the Senators but the United Press learned Louisville is one of them.

It was also learned that the American League clubowners are unanimously in favor of Minneapolis as a major league site. The new stadium can be enlarged to seat 45,000 and the Minneapolis-St. Paul population center is regarded as a potential "Milwaukee."

In order to draft the Minneapolis territory for the 1958 season, a major league club would have to do so between Oct. 1 and 31. The New York Giants, bound for San Francisco, own the Minneapolis franchise and the Brooklyn Dodgers, presumably bound for Los Angeles, own the St. Paul club.

Attendance at Washington has gone steadily down from an all-time high of 1,027,216 in 1946 to a mere 431,647 last year. This year's figure is expected to total about 450,000.

Set Off 23rd Nuclear Device

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Atomic test shot "Charleston" rent the western sky with the fury of more than 20,000 tons of TNT early today, silhouetting in the brilliant fireball the 11,910-foot desert peak for which it was named.

The 23rd device of the Atomic Energy Commission's nearly completed summer series sent its eerie glow over Mt. Charleston, 60 miles from the Yucca Flat platform where it burst forth from about 1,500 feet in the air underneath a tethered balloon.

Many of the tests carried out by the Nevada test organization since 1951 have been viewed by observers from the lofty mountain.

The nuclear experiment, designed by the University of California's Livermore Laboratory, shattered the air violently at 8 a. m. c. d. t.

The momentary brilliance faded in the arriving dawn. The AEC said "Charleston" had a wide range of possible yields, but laboratory technicians had fixed its most likely power at "above nominal," or well over the estimated strength of World War II atom bombs unleashed over Japan.

Fined

Paul Shackelford, arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated and illegal transportation of liquor, pleaded guilty to the illegal transportation charge in county court after the driving charge was nolleed and was fined $200 and costs. Roy Page, arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated, pleaded innocent and was placed under $500 bond.

Braves Beat Reds, 2-1; Set New Attendance Record; Yankees Wallop Boston, 10-2

By United Press
The Milwaukee Braves had a new home attendance record to go with their National League pennant today and should reach two other goals before going on to their World Series rendezvous with the New York Yankees.

The Braves eclipsed their old league attendance mark Friday night when 23,676 fans turned out to see them beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 2-1. With two games remaining on the schedule, Milwaukee has drawn 2,145,926 at home compared to its previous mark of 2,131,388.

In addition, the Braves came within easy reach of two other honors:

—Homers by Andy Pafko and Del Crandall boosted their season output to 199. They need only one more round-tripper to become the fourth team in major league history to reach 200 for a season.

—The victory was the Braves' 94th of the year—tying the club record set by the "miracle" Braves of 1914. One victory in their last two games will be sufficient to give them a new club mark.

Lew Burdette, the likely starter in the second game of the World Series, tune up with a four-hitter as the Braves whipped the Red-

Giardello Stops Lane in Seventh

CLEVELAND (AP)—Hard hitting Joey Giardello said today he's "going to sit down and enjoy" his strengthened No. 2 middleweight contender's spot until either Sugar Ray Robinson or champion Carmen Basilio makes a decision about future plans.

Giardello enhanced his title chances Friday night by stopping Bobby Lane at 2:45 of the seventh of a scheduled 10-round nationally televised bout. A series of right-hand smashes to the chin had Lane staggering helplessly around the ring when referee Tony La Branche called a halt to the scrap.

Lane, Kannapolis, N. C., weighed 159 pounds. Giardello, formerly of Philadelphia, but now residing in New York, scaled 161.

legs for the 17th time in 20 meetings. Wally Post's 20th homer of the year accounted for the run off Burdette. Rookie Charley Rabe suffered the loss.

The American League champion New York Yankees, playing with out Mickey Mantle, Bill Skowron and Gil McDougald, slammed out 15 hits to wallop the Boston Red Sox, 10-2, and give Bob Turley his 13th win.

Turley, slated for game No. 2 or 3 in the Series, yielded only two hits and struck out eight before retiring after seven innings.

Ted Williams walked and grounded out in two appearances before retiring and his batting average dipped to .385.

The Chicago Cubs beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2, and the Philadelphia Phillies shaded the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-2, in other National League games while the Chicago White Sox scored a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians, the Baltimore Orioles downed the Washington Senators, 7-3, and the Kansas City A's conked the Detroit Tigers, 9-7, in other AL games.

UCLA Beats Illinois

Bruins Cash In
On Breaks in First Half to Win, 16-6

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA capitalized on breaks and the individual brilliance of tailback Kirk Wilson to upse Illinois for the first time in four meetings Friday night by a score of 16-6.

The UCLA linemen used a block-out kick and a fumble recovery to set up two touchdowns in the first half and added a field goal for their victory margin before 47,714 fans in Memorial Coliseum.

The Illini, led by quarterback Tom Haller, dominated the second half almost entirely, marching 65 yards only to lose the ball in the third period and then driving 91 yards in the final period to get their only score.

Illinois had been expected to use the passing arm of sophomore Bob Hickey but UCLA put a six-

Feuquay Scampers to Six Touchdowns in Rout; Stone Scores Local Tally

A slight, built, hard-running back named Lester Feuquay, with a line in front of him that out charged the Bull Dogs all night, scampered to six touchdowns last night as the Eldorado Eagles annihilated Harrisburg, 56 to 6, on the Eldorado gridiron last night.

Eldorado started out after the Bull Dogs at the outset of the game and dogged the Bull Dogs the entire game.

It was the worst defeat the locals have suffered since West Frankfort won 51-0 in 1942 and next to the most lopsided score in the long series between the two schools. Harrisburg won 61-6 in 1935.

Feuquay made his touchdowns on runs of 53, 26, one, 68, two and 32 yards. He seemed to explode out into the open, then he was off scampering to a touchdown. Nobody has run as well as Feuquay against the Bull Dogs in a long, long time.

Had Lots of Help

Of course, the Eagle halfback had lots of support. In Carl Justice Coach Al Adams had a quarterback who handled the ball so deftly that the Bull Dogs were tackling men who did not have the ball and the actual carrier was somewhere out alone in the open. And the Eldorado line did its part in the operation, too, being great

Mount Vernon
Stops West
Frankfort, 36-7

By United Press
Peoria Manual's red-hot Raiders racked up 40 points or more for the third straight week and whacked Lincoln's Railsplitters 40-6 Friday night in a Big 12 conference clash.

Manual now has scored a total of 145 points in three games while holding its opponents to a total of only 12.

In southern Illinois the two top contenders for the South Seven conference crown, Herrin and Centralia, battled to a 13-13 tie.

The Murphysboro Red Devils, a strong contender for the southwest Egyptian Loop title, walloped DuQuoin 40-0 in other southern games. Mount Vernon stopped previously unbeaten West Frankfort 36-7. Johnston City shellacked Norris 49-0, and Anna blanked Carbondale Community 13-0.

Eldorado ran up one of the night's high scores in trampling Harrisburg 56-6.

In a full slate of conference games in the Big Eight, Aurora West surprised Rockford East 13-12. Aurora East whipped Rockford West 27-0. Freeport trimmed Joliet 26-6, and La Salle - Peru halted Elgin 14-6.

Ottawa dealt Mendota a 38-0 setback for its third straight win, and DeKalb added its third victory of the season, 27-6 over Hall of Spring Valley.

Pana whitewashed Litchfield 29-0, and Edwardsville blanked the Staunton Bulldogs 25-0.

In the Eastern Illinois race, Paris nudged Westville 14-6, and Charleston, a favorite for the title, whacked Oblong 28-0.

In another Big 12 encounter Danville edged Urbana, which had won its first two games handily, 21-19.

Effingham's Flaming Hearts, who had a 6-6 knot put in their long victory string last week, had the string snapped this week, going down before Hillsboro 19-6.

on defense as well as offense. The vaunted Harrisburg defense did not stand up at all against the Eldorado assault. Not too much had been expected of the offense.

Statistics showed Harrisburg was close to Eldorado in first downs, making nine to the Eagles' 11. But from scrimmage Eldorado made a net 422 rushing to 107 for Harrisburg and a total of 514 yards from scrimmage to 190 for the locals.

Locals Score in Third Period

In passing Eldorado tried two aerials, Justice connecting with both. One went 60 yards for a touchdown, the other for 32 yards. Harrisburg completed five out of 19 attempts for 83 yards and had four tosses intercepted.

Harrisburg was penalized 31 yards, Eldorado 75.

The locals made their touchdown at the outset of the third quarter, moving 70 yards to score. From the H-30 Eddie Price made two yards and Bill Yates 12 to the H-42, after which Price went five and Yates jaunted 21 to the E-32. After an incomplete pass Price moved three yards to the 29 and Mickey Stone got through everybody for a magnificent 29 yard run to score. The placekick attempt was no good.

Eldorado scored on the third play of the game as Feuquay ran 53 yards, and made two more tallies before the first period ended, 19 to 0. Feuquay ran 26 yards for another TD midway in the period and Jack Fowler ran for the extra point. Third tally was a 21-yard jaunt by fullback Jerry Rains. Intercept Pass

In the second period quarterback Justice passed to end Jim Woods, who was all alone when he caught it, and he went the remaining distance unmolested on a 60-yard pass play. Two plays later Feuquay intercepted a Harrisburg pass and raced 53 yards to the H-12. Harrisburg was penalized to the one and Feuquay carried over to make the halftime score 31 to 0.

Harrisburg put on its scoring spurt at the outset of the third period, the drive being climaxed by Stone's fine 29-yard in which he had to get away from about everybody on a converging Eldorado team.

Shortly afterwards Feuquay exploded for a 68-yard run and went over again from the two after Justice had passed 34 yards to Fowler. The quarter ended 43-6.

Play Mt. Vernon Friday

In the final period, after Fowler ran 15 yards to the 18 and Rains 11 to the seven, Rains carried again to score from the seven. Then in the last quarter, after Justice had intercepted an Eldorado pass, Rains ran 33 yards to the H-37. Feuquay added five to the 32, then ran the remaining 32 on the next play to make the final count 55-6.

Harrisburg Coach Caluffetti started Bud Logan and Don Pickford at ends, Jack Simpson and Ron Maynard at tackles, Gary Aldridge and Darrell Biggs at guards, Alen Buchanan at center, Ray Yates and Mickey Stone at halfbacks and Eddie Price at fullback.

Al Adams' starters were Jim Woods and Tom Baugher at ends, Mike McMahon and Bernard Goodley at tackles, Dwight Laffoon and Ronnie Hall at guards, Fred Pool at center, Carl Justice at quarterback, Lester Feuquay and Jack Fowler at halfbacks and Jerry Rains, fullback. Both teams substituted freely and both coaches cleared the benches after the game was a rout.

Harrisburg will entertain Mt. Vernon next Friday night, Eldorado will travel to Johnston City.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Consider the lilies of the field, Matt. 6:28.

They are not cultivated flower, nor are the orchids that grow in swamps, nor the rose. The protective coloring of birds and beasts is no accident. We mortals also beautify the objects of our love.

Better Than Nothing

It is well that in its last-minute rush Congress did not neglect to approve a measure designed to protect the FBI's raw files from fishing expeditions by crooks and Communists.

Those files have been in peril since the celebrated Jencks decision of the Supreme Court earlier this year. That ruling stated that a defendant had a right to examine the files where it was deemed necessary in the defense effort to discredit testimony by opposition witnesses.

Under the measure passed by Congress, a defendant still can look at the federal files when material relates directly to a witness's testimony.

But if the government itself says the material isn't relevant, then the judge would look it over in private and decide whether or not it should be given to the defense.

Such a measure would seem a minimum safeguard for vital FBI files.

Graceful Loser

Twenty-one years ago a genial fellow with wispy hair, glasses and a twangy Middle-Western voice was going up and down the land in presidential combat.

While the battle was on he perhaps did not realize it, but it was one of the toughest uphill struggles ever undertaken by a presidential nominee.

He didn't come anywhere near the top. In fact, he took an unprecedented licking.

The man was Alfred M. Landon, then Republican governor of Kansas. His formidable adversary, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, crushed him by 27 million votes to 16 million. Landon captured but eight electoral votes—the total for Maine and Vermont.

But the vanquished Kansan never lost his sense of balance nor allowed himself to become engulfed in bitterness. He went on to many useful duties, keeping more and more out of the public eye as the years advanced.

Now he is 70. As one who managed his brief flight to the heights with decorum and sportsmanship, he deserves warm congratulations from us all.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson, writing from the near East, gives some ideas on Little Rock and segregation.)
Drew Pearson says: U. S. Information Officer has difficulty combatting events at Little Rock. Ike learned his buck-passing in the Army; he learned to duck trouble young.

AMMAN, JORDAN.—If you're a U. S. information officer in the Near East these days trying to win friends for the U. S. A., you have a problem. The problem is how to counteract Little Rock.

It's your job to make the United States appear to be the friend of the Arabs, the champion of underprivileged people. Personally, you believe this to be true. But what can you write or say to convince the Arab public when it is faced with pictures of a Nashville, Tenn., schoolhouse bombed and blasted because one Negro child was admitted, of a lone Negro child sitting in the back row of a Tennessee classroom, of Negro students in Little Rock being turned back by state troopers, of a 15-year-old Negro girl in Charlotte, N. C., telling how she wanted to be a nurse but finally gave up.

With the pictures are news stories . . . stories of violence, bitterness, race hatred against a people because of the color of their skin. People in this part of the world generally have colored skin, too—brown. In fact, two-thirds of the world is black, brown or yellow. There is no Soviet press here. There doesn't have to be. The pictures, the straight news accounts tell their own story.

Alongside the news are pictures of Ike smiling, golfing, yachting, always smiling. If you're a U. S. information officer or even an ordinary American who likes to have people think well of his country, you can't help wishing that Ike at least sometimes would not smile.

Ike Ducked Trouble—Viewing the integration bitterness of Little Rock from halfway around the world, my memory goes back to another bitter scene when troops were marched down Pennsylvania avenue to clear 20,000 destitute veterans of World War I out of the nation's capital.

I was a young reporter then. It was the first time I saw Dwight D. Eisenhower, then an officer on the staff of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army.

The veterans at first arrived in a mere trickle. They wanted Congress to pass a bonus. Gradually, slowly, their number grew. Camped out on the flats of Anacostia, they put up shacks, started soup kitchens. Friendly merchants contributed to their support.

Eisenhower was appointed Liaison man for the Army with local D. C. police, to keep General MacArthur informed. We used to see him in the District of Columbia building, sitting in the press room reading westerns. He kept away from Anacostia, obviously was not looking for trouble.

But while Ike kept away from trouble, trouble grew in Washington. The bonus army swelled from a few hundred men to several thousand. They took over vacant buildings along Pennsylvania avenue. One night they started marching on Congress. For the first time in history three drawbridges across the Anacostia river were raised, to block them.

It was at this point that President Hoover called out the Army. Eisenhower, the genial, trouble-ducking liaison officer between the Army and the police, had not seen what might develop; so tanks, tear gas, and cavalry brandishing sabres advanced on defenseless veterans along Pennsylvania avenue.

That was in July 1932. A few months later, as Roosevelt entered the White House, the bonus army began coming again. But FDR sent them to near-by Fort Hunt, arranged to give them clothes and transportation back home. They were not allowed to pile up in Washington.

I have sometimes thought of this as I have watched Eisenhower in later years. And as the racial crisis built up, I sometimes wondered why the president did not move to head off trouble early, why he did not call a meeting of southern governors immediately after the supreme court 1954 school decision, why he didn't summon southern leaders to the White House to use his great prestige for solution of this deeply difficult problem.

But Ike just didn't seem to see the bitterness growing, or how extremists were getting the upper hand; that a crisis was building up which might get completely out of hand. Either he just doesn't like trouble, or he's just too nice a guy.

So for three years the situation drifted—and got worse. Last June, as the governors of the 48 states gathered at Williamsburg, Va., in a state already charged with integration bitterness, the president went to Williamsburg but said nothing about the problem uppermost in gubernatorial minds. Instead, he proposed turning federal power over to the states.

"A distinguished American scholar (Prof. Leonard White of the University of Chicago)," he told the governors at Williamsburg, "Has recently counseled that in the measurable future the states are sure to generate into powerless satellites of the federal government."

Activities at Little Rock and in the South are drifting toward exactly what Ike once warned against.

Census Records Help Prove Retirement Age

Of the 4,783,021 farmers counted in the 1954 Census of Agriculture, 779,282 reported they were 65 years old or more and 951,310 were in the 55 to 64 age range. Thousands of these farm operators, as well as other groups of farm workers and household workers, are becoming eligible for benefits under the expanded Social Security Act coverage which went into effect in 1955.

Many of these older persons, born before the registration of births became general practice, are among the estimated 30,000,000 Americans without birth certificates or other official proof of age—a requirement in qualifying for Social Security benefits. A transcript of a personal census record for use as proof of age may be obtained from the U. S. Bureau of the Census for a fee covering the cost of searching the records. A fee of $3.00 pays for a routine search, handled in order of receipt, of not more than two censuses of one person. This may take from 4 to 6 weeks, depending on the backlog of applications. An expedited search may be obtained for a $4.00 fee.

Persons in need of their census records can obtain an Age Search Application Form by writing to the U. S. Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D. C.

Personal information in the U. S. Census records is confidential and is furnished only upon the signed application of the individual to whom it relates.

About 3½ million transcripts of personal census records have been furnished to applicants as proof of age, citizenship or identity in the 22-year period since the Social Security Act was approved.

The Age Search Section of the Bureau of the Census is self-supporting, its expenses being paid by the fees charged for searching the records.

J. H. Bynum, Who Taught at HTHS, Is Teaching in France

Jay H. Bynum, who taught English and journalism at HTHS for the past three years, is now teaching at the Rochefort American high school in Rochefort, France.

In a letter to Chris Brown, co-editor of the Purple Clarion, HTHS publication, Mr. Bynum tells of his trip to Europe and some of the sights he saw. Here is his own description:

"We were a couple of days in N. Y. C.; flew to Frankfurt, Germany, by way of Greenland and Iceland, and over Paris. True to army tradition, they flew us considerably past our destination and then sent us back by train.

"We came into Paris. It didn't impress me nearly as much as I expected — it is dirtier than I thought. Of course, we really didn't have time to see the nicer parts.

"We came on down thru Tours and Joan de Arc's Orleans to Portier, where we spent two more days, and then finally on down to Rochefort.

"France is very different from America. For one thing, there are no houses built of wood; they are tall, narrow buildings, and even here, in a small town, are built very close together.

"Every house has a garden — either of flowers or vegetables or both. They are usually very neat and immaculate.

"This part of France has historical significance . . . at Poitiers, Charles Martel father of Charlemagne, stopped the invasion of the Roman Empire by the Moors; at La Rochelle the Huguenots embarked for America; at Lourdes is the famous Catholic shrine—made famous by the vision of Bernadette; Orleans was, of course, the site of Jeanne de Arc's most famous victory; at Rochefort, Napoleon spent his last day in France, was captured by the British, and deported to St. Helena."

New 'Comprehensive' Medical Insurance Plan by GE Studied as Model

By JACK V. FOX

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The vast General Electric Co. started in the autumn of 1955 a new "comprehensive" medical insurance plan which is being scrutinized by other businesses as a possible model.

The GE plan, underwritten by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., differs mainly from older plans in that it covers most bills outside hospitals, has no set schedule of fees and provides major coverage up to $15,000.

The major criticism of the plan is that it is open to widespread misuse and overuse by employees and by doctors.

About 96 per cent of General Electric's 225,000 workers voted for the comprehensive plan after bargaining with the company through 93 unions. Taking in their families, approximately 300,000 persons are covered.

Here are some of its main provisions:

For hospital rooms, services, surgery, anesthetics and X-rays, the GE employee must pay the first $25 of cost himself. Benefits are 100 per cent of the next $225. After that, the policy pays 85 per cent of additional expenses and the patient 15 per cent—up to $7,500.

"Fifty-Dollar Deductible
For doctor fees other than surgery, performed any place, for registered nurses, various treatments and for medicines requiring a prescription, the employee pays the first $50. The remainder of expense is borne 75 per cent by insurance and 25 per cent by the patient—up to $7,500.

Excluded from coverage is dental care, except for surgery, eye glasses, hearing aids and medical examinations or laboratory tests for "regular physical checkups."

It is noted orally in the latter case that should an employee undergo a checkup showing that he is in need of treatment, the diagnostic charge usually is covered. Should the checkup show him sound and well, he must bear it himself.

General Electric also provided for a more limited medical insurance for employees reaching the age of 65 who had been with the company for 10 years or more.

The doctor is the judge of the type and amount of care required, but he is subject to the provision that the bill must be "reasonable, necessary and customary."

Didn't Work in Maine
One critic pointed out that a similar "comprehensive" type insurance was tried at an iron works in Maine. He said that within a short time the workers and their families were making so many and such unnecessary demands that the project had to be dropped in favor of insurance establishing set fee schedules for specific care.

One Metropolitan official cautioned that if voluntary health insurance becomes too costly, compulsory government insurance may not be far off. He quoted one physician as saying: "The time has come when we must wise up the doctor and wise up the patient, or else."

Voluntary plans can be priced out of the market, he said, if patients and doctors spend more than is needed simply because there is insurance.

The human elements enters very much into this consideration.

One doctor pointed out that a person feeling sick might (A) shrug it off and go to work, (B) go to bed (C) call his doctor or (D) demand to be taken to a hospital. The response of persons with the same degree of illness will vary greatly among those four choices.

New Directors for Southern Illinois Oratorio Chorus and Symphony at SIU

Robert Hines

Dr. Carmine Ficocelli

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Returning members of the Southern Illinois Oratorio Chorus and Southern Illinois Symphony Orchestra will be greeted by new directors when they gather for the season's first rehearsals on the SIU campus this month.

Both organizations, composed of students, faculty and area musicians, were left leaderless this year by the deaths of Floyd Wakeland, veteran choral director, and Dr. Maurits Kessner, organizer and conductor of the Symphony.

Taking over as director of the oratorio chorus will be Robert Hines, new head of choral activities at Southern. For the past five years he has been director of music for General Motors Corporation in Detroit. During the past year he served also as distinguished visiting professor at the University of Michigan, replacing the famed Maynard Klein, and taught classes in conducting, music history, music literature and theory at the Detroit Institute of Musical Art. A Juilliard School of Music Graduate, he directed the General Motors Chorus in national radio and television productions between 1952-57. He was choirmaster of Detroit's Our Saviour Lutheran Church during the same period.

Dr. Carmine Ficocelli, who becomes conductor of the symphony, is a former student of Serge Koussevitsky and Pierre Monteux. He founded and conducted the Youngstown (O.) Symphony Orchestra, the Mansfield (Pa.) Symphony and his own Ficocelli Sinfonietta. He taught previously at Indiana University and Mansfield State College. An outstanding violinist, he has been a member of the Indianapolis, Evansville and Cornish Philharmonic orchestras.

Dr. Ficocelli received degrees from Indiana University and Youngstown University. He has served on the faculties of numerous operatic, choral and instrumental institutes and other special schools.

First rehearsal for the choral group, which will perform a Palm Sunday oratorio as well as the traditional December presentations of "The Messiah", will be held at 7 p. m. Sept. 30 in the SIU Library Auditorium. Subsequent rehearsals will be held weekly, from 7 to 9:30 p. m., on Monday nights.

Director Hines has opened membership to "everyone who can sing and is willing to faithfully attend rehearsals."

Ficocelli held the first rehearsal for the symphony, now going into its ninth concert season on Sept. 24.

Plans call for two rehearsal groups this season—a student orchestra which will meet during the day and an "adult area symphony orchestra" which will meet Tuesday evenings at 7 p. m. in Shryock Auditorium. All veteran players have been summoned to the first rehearsal, and Conductor Ficocelli also has invited area newcomers, particularly string players.

The symphony will present four campus concerts in addition to a pair of off-campus performances for children. The first concert has been scheduled for Nov. 5 at Shryock Auditorium.

16 Illinois Traffic Deaths

By United Press

Weekend Illinois traffic accidents claimed the lives of at least 16 persons, including four teenagers and a 2-year-old girl.

Clarence Rudolph, 16, Richmond, was killed and Virginia Dawson, 16, Spring Grove, was injured fatally in a two-car collision Saturday at the intersection of Ill. 173 and the Johnsbury blacktop road about three miles east of Richmond. They were passengers in a car driven by another youth.

David Waters and Huey Burton, both 17 and of Rochelle, were killed early Saturday when their car hit a concrete bridge abutment on U. S. 51 seven miles north of Mendota. Police said Waters was driving when the accident occurred.

A 2-year-old Chicago girl was struck by a fruit peddler's truck Saturday as she was riding her tricycle on the street in front of her house. The victim, Kathleen Verkes, died Sunday in Holy Cross Hospital.

Geraldine Gillespie, 12, Karnak was killed Sunday when the car in which she was riding left Ill. 37 north of Grand Chain.

Says Falsely Accused

Hodge, Browning Both Plead Innocent to State Charges

CHICAGO (UP)—Orville Hodge, imprisoned former state auditor, pleaded innocent to a new conspiracy charge today and said he has been accused falsely of stealing more than one million dollars.

Hodge and his former attorney, J. Roy Browning, both pleaded innocent to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the state.

Judge Henry W. Dieringer of Criminal Court set Nov. 8 for arguments on a motion by Hodge's attorneys to dismiss the indictment.

But the judge ruled that Hodge himself would not have to appear. No action was taken on a second indictment charging Browning with being an accessory to the alleged conspiracy.

Before court began, Hodge

UMW Contract Clause Expires

WASHINGTON (UP)—The one-year "no change" clause in the United Mine Workers' contract with the nation's soft coal operators expires today.

Industry and UMW officials said they did not know of any plans to open new negotiations.

However, UMW President John L. Lewis often has quietly opened negotiations with mine owners in the past without serving public notice.

A spokesman for the bituminous coal operators would not say whether there have been any indications that Lewis will present new contract demands soon.

The present contract, effective Oct. 1, 1956, included a two-stage wage increase during the year, raising the basic daily wage in the industry to $22.25. It does not contain a cost-of-living escalator clause.

Beginning Tuesday, either side may revoke the contract at any time by filing a 60-day written notice. Otherwise it will remain in effect indefinitely.

Congressman Plans to Introduce Law to End Draft

WASHINGTON (UP)—A New York congressman plans to introduce legislation next year to end the draft.

The congressman, Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, said it no longer is necessary to force men into military service because the armed forces can get all the men they need through voluntary enlistments.

Furthermore, Celler said, abolishing the draft would save the government 28 million dollars annually in salaries of Selective Service officials, office rent and other expenses.

The New York Democrat's plan was certain to run up against stiff opposition from the administration. Defense Department officials said that without compulsory service it would be impossible to maintain more than 1,500,000 men in uniform.

Teamster Group To Appeal Case to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UP)—Thirteen rank-and-file teamsters appealed to the Supreme Court today to prevent the union from holding its national elections this week.

They asked the high court to reinstate a Federal District Court injunction against holding the elections at the Teamsters convention opening today at Miami Beach, Fla.

The case must be taken for action to a single justice, as the court is still in summer recess. The lawyer for the 13 teamsters said, however, that selection of a justice is up to the court and not to them.

A court aide said the case probably will go to Chief Justice Earl Warren, who administers the District of Columbia circuit. Warren is now in Washington.

Shelley Quits Teamster Race

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—Rep. John Shelley (D-Calif.) withdrew today as a candidate for president of the huge Teamsters Union and called on his supporters to unite behind a move to defeat James R. Hoffa, the front-running candidate.

Shelley, who claimed 240 votes of the convention's 1,900, said he hoped his backers would get behind one of three Hoffa rivals—Thomas J. Haggerty of Chicago, William A. Lee of Chicago and Thomas L. Hickey of New York.

He described the three as "outstanding unionists who would attempt to keep the Teamsters within the AFL-CIO." He said the election of Hoffa, midwestern Teamster boss, might result in the ouster of the Teamsters from their parent organization.

handed newsmen a typewritten statement which said:

"I am not the thief which my accusers would have everyone believe."

His lengthy statement said in part:

"Recently two of the several audits made by the state dealing with my public and personal accounts were made available to me for examination."

"It is obvious—but I have never seen this published in any newspaper—that the audits show items amounting to over one million dollars which could not possibly have been taken and utilized to my personal gain, nor was this done."

Specifically, Hodge contended, items listed in sections 2 and 3 of the state audit covering activities of the auditor's office from January, 1953, to July, 1956, "could not possibly have been used for my personal gain."

He said the audit made of his account in the Southmoor bank showed personal deposits made from money earned in business enterprises involving both himself and his wife.

"Over $300,000 had been deposited from these business enterprises and I cannot emphasize too strongly that this money had absolutely nothing to do with, nor was it in any way connected with, public funds," Hodge said.

"I have not had sufficient opportunity to review all the items in these audits. But I do state most emphatically that a superficial study has already shown me something over one million dollars that could not have been—nor was it—utilized for my personal gain in any manner, shape or form."

Army Announces Cuts to Meet Wilson Demands

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army pulled in its belt another notch today to meet the economy demands of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

It said it would replace one of its two 15,000-man armored divisions with a 5,000-man armored combat team. It said it would also abolish 14 Air Defense installations and five aviation construction battalions as well as reduce a combat team in Panama.

The cuts were part of the army's drive to help meet Wilson's order to pare down its overall manpower strength by 100,000 men by the end of the current fiscal year next June 30.

The Army said in a statement last night it would cut its manpower by 71,000 by next Jan. 1 and an additional 29,000 by June 30. It said Wilson's order also may force it to close some Army posts, camps and other installations.

The service said the manpower cuts would be concentrated "among personnel engaged in administrative, logistical and special activity" branches.

But it said Wilson's economy order required changes in its combat structure.

Wilson recently directed the armed forces to trim 200,000 men from their manpower strengths by next June 30. The orders were designed to save about a billion dollars in defense spending.

Two-Year-Old Benton Boy Drowns

BENTON, Ill. (UP)—A 2-year-old Benton boy drowned Sunday in a four-foot deep draining ditch near his home.

Franklin County Coroner Barney Browning identified the victim as Joe Willis Jr. Browning said the boy evidently slipped into the ditch while playing.

The body was recovered by the boy's uncle, Donald Lance, who thought the boy had gone to church. He started a search when he found the victim's new shoes in the house.

Browning said the boy's father worked in Chicago.

An inquest will be held tonight at Benton.

Gov't to Seek Indictments At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Justice Department attorneys are preparing to go before a federal grand jury here to seek criminal indictments against instigators of mob violence at Central High School.

Some highly placed persons in Little Rock expect the grand jury to be called into session within a week. They believe the FBI already has enough evidence to obtain indictments against 8 to 10 men. At least 30 or 40 others are under intensive investigation.

One man in whom the FBI is taking a very active interest is Jimmy Karam, a close personal and political friend of Gov. Orval E. Faubus. Karam operates a clothing store in Little Rock. Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann has charged in an official statement to federal authorities that Karam was "one of the principal agitators" of last Monday's disorders at the school, which induced President Eisenhower to order in federal troops.

Mann also contends that Faubus himself was involved "at least" to the extent that he knew in advance of plans to stir up trouble at the school.

Karam and Faubus deny these charges. The precise plans of the Justice Department are secret. U. S. Dist. Atty. Osro Cobb replies "no comment" to all questions.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
"Dear Lord, change me just a little bit. Don't make a big change in me because I am pretty well satisfied to be as I am." A prayer stated in these words appears very egotistical. It even sounds silly — we read the statement. Although we do not actually pray this way, we are sometimes inclined to live according to the thought expressed.

Thousands who have turned to God in recent years have found the changes in their lives cataclysmic, but most satisfying. They have found peace and joy with the changes in every phase of life—in every detail of their thinking and acting.

Smokey Says:

We fear God's way as a lot of "don'ts" or as a loss of pleasure. Actually, the change is so positive that "dos" wipe out all the thought of negatives. Life becomes so full of real joy that old pleasures appear minor and trivial. God's alternatives are not based on our judgments of degree, but on His standards which are full and complete.

Permit Needed For Production Of Tax-Free Wine

The grape harvest season is at hand, and William N. Woodruff, assistant Regional Commissioner Alcohol & Tobacco Tax, for the Chicago Region, wishes to inform prospective wine makers that although the head of a family may produce two hundred gallons of wine per year taxfree for the use of his immediate family, he must first register his intention to produce such wine with the Alcohol & Tobacco Tax Division of the Internal Revenue Service.

Prospective wine makers in the State of Illinois must secure forms for this purpose from the Office of the Supervisor in Charge, Alcohol & Tobacco Tax, Post Office Box No. 1144, Chicago, 90, Illinois. These forms must be submitted to the above office, in duplicate, at least five days before the production of wine is started. If the applicant is qualified one copy of the form will be returned as authorization to produce not more than two hundred gallons of wine during the twelve month period from July 1 through June 30. A new form must be filed for each year in which it is desired to produce such wine.

Mr. Woodruff warns that the exemption given under Federal Law for the production of tax-free wine is solely for family use and does not apply to an unmarried person, unless he qualifies as head of a family, or a married man living apart from his family or to the production of wine by corporations or partnerships for commercial purposes. Each year a number of persons who have made wine for family use are taxed at the regular rate, according to the alcoholic content, and may face criminal prosecution for the reason that they fail to register their intention to produce wine.

OPEN EVENINGS 'TIL 7 P. M.

At 4:35 on the afternoon of October 3 Grant Melville, a portrait painter, fell from the fourth-floor studio of the Melville house on East Tenth St. and was instantly killed. Melville was alone in the house when the fatal accident occurred. His wife and the servants were still at the Melville country place on Long Island, from which the painter had returned that morning. He was at work on a canvas in the studio when he went over to one of the long windows at the front, lost his balance, and crashed to the pavement below.

As in all cases of sudden death, the usual investigation was made. The verdict was accident.

There was one dissenting voice. At around 4 o'clock on that same afternoon, Sarah Casement entered a fifth-floor apartment in the Seldon Arms, an apartment house directly across the street from the Melville house. The apartment was not hers, it belonged to Zita Warren, a friend who was off on a cruise and had urged Sarah to use it.

No one saw Sarah Casement enter the Seldon Arms. If she had been seen she would have been remembered. Her appearance was different, distinctive. She was hatless. Tawny hair curved around her head in a bell, framing striking gray eyes under dark brows, and she wore her clothes carelessly, with a sort of rakish elegance. Sarah was a free-lance copywriter by profession and she had brought work with her to her friend's apartment that afternoon. She didn't immediately settle to it.

Zita Warren's living room was 30 feet long and had three windows. Beyond it the dining room extended for another 15 feet. There was one larger window there. Sarah was at this window when she first noticed the painter in the studio of the little rose-red house with the white shutters directly across the street. He had on a mustard-colored smock. He was a man of medium height with a dark head beginning to bald at the crown. His back was to her. The canvas on which he was painting was facing the street at a slant, and she couldn't see what was on it. The rear of the room was in dimness. The painter held a palette in one hand and a brush or knife in the other. He would apply paint, step back to study the result, his head on one side, and bend forward again.

Presently Sarah strolled away telling herself that she ought to get on with her own stuff, she had come here to Zita's to do just that. At 25 minutes of 5 she had glanced at her watch and decided it was too early for a drink before sauntering to the window. This time there was a change in the studio across the street. The painter there wasn't working. His back was still to her, but instead of facing the canvas on his left, he was facing towards a door on the right wall. Sarah couldn't see the door itself—what she could see was a long shaft of light on the floor where the western sun came through the opening. There was a man lounging in the doorway; she couldn't see the man, but she could see his shadow, part of it. The angle of a hat, a shoulder and arm were a dark shape thrown on brightness.

The painter and this man were talking. The painter put his palette on a stool beside the easel and came over to one of the long windows at the front of the studio. In the fuller light he was more clearly visible. He was a hand some man of middle height in his late forties or early fifties. His face was heavy, it had a white, dead look to it, as though he had had a shock. He kept tapping the palm of his hand jerkily with his palette knife, listening apparently to what the man behind him said. Suddenly he changed his position. He bent sharply forward, leaned out and stared at something below him in the street.

Sarah looked too. There was nothing startling, a boy wheeling a grocery cart, a nurse with two children, the postman on the corner, a couple of pedestrians, a woman with a dog on a leash. Sarah glanced back at the painter and stopped breathing.

There was movement of some sort behind the man in the mustard-colored smock, and then the man himself was coming through the window and was falling into space, his grotesquely sprawled figure hurtling towards the pavement.

Sarah covered her eyes with her hands, fighting nausea. When she took her hands away again, a cluster of people had sprung up on the opposite pavement near the foot of the steps. They hid what lay there . . . Shouts and a confusion of voices. Swaying on her feet, Sarah looked into the studio across from her. Most certainly there had been movement behind the painter the instant before he came through the long window. At that time the door in the right wall was open. There was nothing there now but dimness. The rectangle of brightness had vanished. The man who had been with the painter had gone. The door was closed.

THE painter's visitor must have raced down to the street . . . It was odd that he had taken time to close the studio door behind him . . . A police car was arriving. Two policemen got out and mounted the steps of the rose-colored house. The front door appeared to be locked. They couldn't get in. One of the policemen went along a narrow alley to the left of the house that divided it from a big apartment building fronting on University Place. A siren wailed then the wail died as an ambulance pulled up. Sarah moved away from the window on shaky legs and sank into the nearest chair.

Her thoughts were troubled, chaotic. Two doors that should have been open and weren't, two doors that were closed . . . A man racing at top speed to the side of a friend who had fallen four stories to the pavement would scarcely stop to close doors behind him—would he?

It was after half-past 5 when Sarah left Tenth Street. She tried to forget the horror she had seen put it out of her mind, and couldn't. At 8 o'clock that night she called the local precinct. At a quarter of 9 two officers, Sergeant Ross and First-Grade Detective Brownell, came to her apartment on Thirty-sixth Street. The painter's name was Grant Melville and Melville was dead. He had been instantly killed. Sarah told her story.

Sergeant Ross was a stolid old man nearing retirement. The man with whom he usually worked was in the hospital. Brownell, who had been assigned to him, was 15 years younger and fresher. Brownell studied the girl intently, the poise of her head, the tawny hair curve around it, the dark-lashed gray eyes, as she described what she had seen in the studio across the street that afternoon. She had all her wits about her. She spoke quietly but with firmness.

THESE things went for nothing with Sergeant Ross, and the sergeant was in charge. Back at the precinct it was Ross who reported to Lieutenant Parr, his ranking officer. "The girl's nuts, Lieutenant—hysterical type." He said that the Melville house had been under observation from the moment Grant Melville came through the window; a crowd of passers-by had sprung up on the pavement. No one had left the house. It was se-
